

Ladies are under spotlight

From the Guardian Series, first published Wednesday 1st Dec 2004.

WINSFORD Ladies FC are set for regional recognition with an appearance on BBC North West Tonight.

The news programme fronted by Gordon Burns approached the club who are now top of the Chester and Manchester Women's League.

It is a remarkable achievement for the club who are in their first full season in the league and they are doing so well that they have been brought to the attention of the BBC.

Alan Simpson, of Winsford United, said: "The Ladies, who are now part of Winsford United were approached by the BBC to do a feature because they have done so well, so quickly.

"This is a fantastic achievement by the management, coaches and players of all the girls' and ladies' teams."

Winsford Ladies currently have the only 100 per cent record in their division, sitting one point ahead of nearest rivals Manchester City after nine games.

And it is a mark of the quality of the team that they are able to hold their own against teams with the backing of the likes of City, Stockport County and Macclesfield.
